

WILD STEER GIVES 20 POLICE BATTLE OF THREE HOURS

Runs Amuck on Brooklyn Pier
—Bowls Dock Hands Over in Sudden Dash.

SHOT, LEAPS INTO BAY.

Lassoed by Pursuers in Boat,
Longhorn Is Brought to Shore and Killed.

Five steers, all big, long-horned fellows from the Western plains, were loaded into a truck in Swift & Co.'s yard in Jersey City yesterday and taken to the Fabre line pier at Thirty-first street, Brooklyn, whence the steamship Madonna sailed to-day for Marseilles and Naples.

The driver of the truck, Gus Neil, called to several Frenchmen employed in the Madonna to help him get the steers aboard. The Frenchmen either did not understand Neil's English or preferred to keep a safe distance from the long horns.

Alone Neil managed to get four of the steers on the steamship. He started with the fifth, but the animal, with a deep, angry bellow, broke away and started on the pier for the street. The steers who piled with horns and barrels. The steer tumbled them over. No men tried to stop him, but several who were not quick enough in getting out of the way were knocked down.

At the pier entrance are two vacant lots. The steer made for one. Workmen, seeing a short cut home, were knocked down. Taking his stand in the center of the lot the animal bellowed defiance.

BULLETS FLEW AROUND MAD-DENED ANIMAL AT BAY.
Capt. Arthur Carey arrived with twenty reserves from the Fourth avenue station. It was growing dark. In the lot, still bellowing and flinging dirt with horns and hoofs, was the steer. Carey formed a line of police along Third avenue, with orders to keep all persons from going toward the bay.

The reserves then began to shoot at the steer. More than fifty bullets were fired his way, but he only bellowed louder. At last a bullet went true. Others had struck him, but had not crippled him. The last bullet sent him to his knees, but he quickly was on his feet, charged through the crowd and reached the other lot.

Peter Morales, a Chilean cattle raiser, joined the police.
"I can rope him," he said, and the police believed him.

A rope was obtained, but Morales couldn't rope that steer. Then he suggested that one of the other steers be brought off the ship and tied near the lot. This was done, and the wounded, saddened animal came from the lot and joined his old companion.

Again Morales tried to rope him. The steer, with a deep bellow, started up the railroad tracks skirting the bay. He charged between freight cars until he reached Thirty-eighth street, then plunged into the water and started toward Staten Island.

Moved by Capt. Creamer of the schooner Judge Harrington, Morales, with the rope, and several other men started in a small boat. Half a mile from shore they overtook the steer. He turned on the pursuers. Several times the boat almost was capsized by him, though the patrolmen fired bullets into him. Finally Morales got the rope over the steer's horns and Capt. Creamer started for the boat.

The rope wasn't needed to haul the steer, for he was still full of fight and was following the men to continue the battle.

Reaching shore, the men in the small boat tumbled out in a hurry. Then several policemen rushed forward and fired straight into the animal's forehead. He toppled over, dead.

The fight had lasted just three hours.

Alleged Chicago Embezzler Recognized in Broadway by Bellboys and Is Arrested.

Well dressed and well supplied with cash, a man who had in his pockets cards inscribed "A. C. Rea, Standard Oil Company, Chicago, Ill.," was arrested at Broadway and Forty-first street yesterday afternoon by Patrolman Levy. It is asserted that Rea is John F. Maroney, formerly a cashier at the Hotel Blackstone of Chicago, accused of having committed a $1,200 defalcation there last June.

The arrest was made after William J. Nalanth and Archie Buchanan, two former Blackstone bellboys, now employed at the Hotel Claridge in this city, had seen the prisoner on Broadway and had run up to the policeman saying: "That's Maroney and he's wanted in Chicago for embezzlement." Maroney, said the bellboys, had often told them and other Blackstone employees that if he ever had reason to avoid arrest he would seek New York as a hiding place. He said any men could lose himself in New York. When the youths were leaving the Blackstone to come here they were asked to keep a lookout for Maroney.

In the West Thirtieth street police station the prisoner declined to say anything about himself.

TORPEDO BOAT IN STORM.

Wireless Apparatus Ruined—Destroyer Also Hard Hit.

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., Dec. 1.—With her wireless apparatus, one mast and one lifeboat gone and two other lifeboats smashed, the torpedo boat Truxton arrived in the harbor here yesterday after battling for two days with the most severe storm in the experience of her officers and crew.

For the greater part of the two days not a man on the Truxton took time to eat, and for hours at a stretch it seemed impossible to prevent the little vessel's foundering. When she arrived here she virtually was out of coal and water and fresh supplies are being taken, so that the Truxton may resume her voyage to San Francisco.

The torpedo boat destroyer Whipple arrived at San Diego last night showing the effects of a terrific storm encountered last night and to-day. She sustained considerable deck damage.

Margaret Ogden, Who Lives
With Parents, Applies for Income From Legacy.

Fifteen-year-old Margaret Van Courtlandt Ogden, granddaughter of John R. Ogden, has applied to Surrogate Fowler for an order allowing her an income from a legacy. Although she lives with her parents, Francis L. Ogden and Gertrude H. Ogden, her private expenses run up to $6,220 a year, she says. She itemizes them as follows:

Governor's salary, $360; governor's board and keep, $1,500; general house expenses, $1,300; art lessons, $50; riding lessons, $50; dancing lessons, $100; singing lessons, $100; dress, $1,000; pocket money, $50.

Miss Ogden says her parents are persons of means and position and that her expenses of education and maintenance will necessarily be for some years of the standard indicated in her itemized statement. Under the will of Elizabeth G. Smith-Chitt, who died in 1905,

No nail polish ever known has leaped into such great popularity as Every Woman's Nail Polish. It has none of the faults of the ordinary nail polish. In an instant it gives a lustre of exceptional brilliancy, and no buffer is needed. Yet it contains no grit, no acid, no grease, no pumice-stone. It will not crumble, soap on the hands will not affect its lustre. It will last longer than any other polish. Prepared in pink flesh tint. A chamomile is included in every box. Every Woman's Nail Polish is sold at all drug and department stores, for a box, or sent direct by The Every Woman Co., 30 S. Fifth Ave., Chicago.

she inherited $120,415, the average income of which will exceed $5,000 a year.
"Your petitioner is informed by her parents," Miss Ogden continues, "that the property which she will inherit from them, apart from the property which she now owns, will be amply sufficient for her comfortable support and maintenance, and there is therefore no reason for any accumulation of her income."
She asks the Surrogate to sign an order directing the Lawyers' Title Insurance and Trust Company, guardian of her property, to apply $4,000 of the income from her legacy to her support and education, paying the money to her father or mother. She is with them now in Guilford, England, but most of the time they live in Cannes, France.
Surrogate Fowler did not sign the order. He said the parents should submit a detailed statement showing whether they are able to support and educate their daughter.

William A. Brown Dead.
William A. Brown, seventy-eight, died yesterday at the home of his son, William E. Brown, No. 27 Appleton place, Glen Ridge, N. J., after an illness of two months from stomach trouble. As a Fire Commissioner of Brooklyn, to which post he was appointed in 1909, he organized the paid Fire Department of that city.

How to Cure Rheumatism

Prominent Doctor's Best Prescription Easily Mixed at Home.
This simple and harmless formula has worked wonders for all who have tried it, quickly relieving chronic and acute rheumatism and backache. "From your drugstore get one ounce of Toris compound (in original sealed package) and one ounce of Syrup of Sarsaparilla compound. Take these two ingredients home and put them in a half pint of good whiskey. Shake the bottle and take a tablespoonful before each meal and at bedtime. Good results come after the first few doses. If your drugstore does not have Toris compound in stock he will get it for you in a few hours from his wholesale house. Don't be influenced to take a patent medicine instead of this. Insist on having the genuine Toris compound in the original, one-ounce, sealed, yellow package. This was published here last winter and hundreds of the worst cases were cured by it in a short time. Published by the Globe Pharmaceutical Laboratories of Chicago.—Advt.
